

FILIPINOS REACH FAIR

Natives of Luzon Added to Wonders at Jamestown.

UNCLE SAM SOLE EXHIBITOR

Government's Various Departments Only Attractions Sufficiently Completed to Prove Interesting to Visitors—Private Parties Practically Ripping Cases Open to Get Goods.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Norfolk, April 29.—With the arrival of seventy-seven draggled, brown brothers from the Philippines at the opening of rest of the government buildings to the public to-day, Uncle Sam may be said to be first exhibitor at the Jamestown Exposition.

He is only indirectly responsible for the brown brothers, and they look as if they needed a sympathetic guardian, but in the two big buildings added to Raleigh square, housing the exhibits of the various departments at Washington, and in the two smaller structures on either side given over to the Smithsonian Institution and the government fisheries exhibit, your Uncle is sole exhibitor on all the grounds.

Perhaps the government has a greater advantage over the private exhibitors, who are frantically ripping cases open and shunting pickle bottles in gross over the blocked floors of the other buildings, and is thus enabled to get its goods into place for the public first.

Army and Navy Exhibits. Those who went into the building given over to the departments of the army and navy to-day saw Jackies with paint brushes putting the finishing touches on the wooden anchors grouped about the ship models, and soldiers from the military camp, sweeping up the last piles of chips and rubbish about the cases of small arms.

Being Uncle Sam's wards, the Filipinos who arrived to-day are not put down with the common freaks on the warpath, but have a village of their own so far, largely on paper—under the wings of one of the government buildings. The sign which calls attention to the merits of a Filipino as an object of interest gives conspicuous place to the statement that only by the consent of the authorities in the Philippines has this typical collection of intelligent aborigines from far-away Luzon been brought here at great expense. No April or May day pastimes were ever rounded up by doughboys in a Moro stockade than those seventy-seven, who were plotted out to the exposition grounds by their managers and dumped through the gates of the prepared village.

Five Tribes Represented. There are five tribes represented by these Filipinos—Tagalogs, Moros, Bagobos, Visayans, and Ilocanos. They do not understand each other's language. They eat different food, and what a Moro prepares is a Tagalog's poison.

This morning there were various pots rigged up over fires throughout the inclosure, and about these squatted men with long hair and ragged beards, and their uncombed locks. They stewed their meat and looked mournful. The Tagalogs and Ilocanos, in spotless white suits, stood up around a pine table apart from the Moros and took their meals like little gentlemen. Their women, with brown shoulders bare to the winds, sat apart in tangled heaps of household goods and spanked their babies with spitefulness.

There are pine huts here which represent native Filipino huts. The fact that the bark is left on the boards lends enchantment and helps to carry out the illusion. Each cluster of pine huts has a neat painted board in the foreground telling what village it is. There is also in plain view a caribou cart and a brass bedstead to give the local color.

GLEN ECHO GETTING RICH.

Fines Paid by Autoists Swell the Town's Treasures. Special to The Washington Herald.

Within the past six months fines aggregating about $700 have been paid into the treasury, and notwithstanding the fact that Mayor Garrett, who imposes the fines, has stated that in all cases he proposes to impose the heaviest penalty—$50 fine—the law continues to be violated, and the Glen Echo officials express themselves as of the opinion that the revenue from automobile fines will prove a permanent source of income to the town.

the way out that he thought it best just to drop in on the State building and leave his traps there for the day; possibly there would be a place to spend the night, then to-morrow they could look up lodgings in some neat and inexpensive house in Norfolk.

Father had some wrestling with his temper during the long walk from the ferry pier to Willoughby Boulevard, where the State buildings are located. He carried mother's satchel and his own grip, and daughter asked him to carry her cape, for she couldn't hold up her dress and cover her shoulders with that cape dangling. When they arrived at their State building and saw three grinning plasterers eating their lunch on the front steps they dropped everything and started for the building.

"Why, isn't the building finished?" asked mother.

"About three weeks," said one of the plasterers.

"Come on, mother," said father, "I'm going back home."

LIQUOR LICENSES HELD UP.

Hearing of Protests Against Saloon Men Begins in Hagerstown, Md. Special to The Washington Herald.

Hagerstown, Md., April 29.—Three of the twenty-five protests against the issuing of liquor licenses were heard on court to-day. In six of the cases the protests were sustained, three were held sub curia, and in one case the protest was ordered dismissed. The liquor interests of Hagerstown are aroused, perhaps, as they have never been before. Judge Knapp announced that the strict letter of the law would be followed, which means that many will go out of business temporarily and some permanently.

IMMIGRANT PIER IN DANGER

Landing Place of Aliens at Baltimore to Be Inspected.

Commissioner Weis Fears Collapse of B. & O. Structure May Have Weakened Foundation.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Md., April 29.—At the request of Immigration Commissioner Louis T. Weis, Mayor Timanus will have a complete examination made to-morrow morning of Pier 2, Locust Point, where thousands of immigrants land in the course of a year. It adjoins the pier which collapsed last Saturday. Commissioner Weis sent the following letter to Building Inspector Preston to-day:

"When the new Baltimore and Ohio pier collapsed Saturday last, I had under my supervision and charge on the adjoining pier No. 2, over 1,100 alien passengers. The pier was rocked as if struck by a hurricane, and I am unofficially informed that it was damaged and weakened.

"The lower floor of Pier No. 2 is generally filled with freight and railway cars, and, at times, shifting engines. The upper floor, where all passengers are landed, is not used for freight to any great extent. It has at times as many as 2,300 human beings on it, undergoing examination, besides the custom and immigration officers. There is a railway track on this floor and the coaches, some eight or ten in number, are run up on this track and loaded with passengers. Should the pier go down it would be nothing short of a national disaster."

The reason caused by the pier which fell threw the big steamer Cassell against the pier and tore out bits of piling.

Police Claim One of Accused Envoys to Place Blame on Other. Judge Barley Appears as Witness in Court—Ministers' Association Reorganizes and Elects Officers.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU, (Bell Telephone 113.)

Alexandria, Va., April 29.—George Griffin and Charles Michael, of this city, are locked up at the station-house awaiting an examination before Justice Caton, in the police court, to-morrow on the charge of arson. The specific accusation made against them is that they were responsible for the fire which was started last Saturday night in two unoccupied frame houses on North Lee street.

Before the blaze had gained headway it was discovered and extinguished by Officers Jones and Henderson. The men were arrested this afternoon by Officers Henderson and Beach.

According to the police, Michael declared that Griffin had asked him to take part in setting fire to the buildings. When he refused, he stated, he saw Griffin go alone into one of the houses and strike a match. Michael said he was then frightened away by hearing police whistles.

STIR IN FREDERICK POLITICS

Democrats Miss Guiding Hand of Late Gen. Baughman. Special to The Washington Herald.

Frederick, Md., April 29.—Considerable interest is beginning to be manifested by the politicians of both parties in the municipal election in Frederick, which will be held Tuesday, June 11, when a mayor, city register, and five members of the board of aldermen are to be chosen. Under the election law, which was passed by the legislature in 1904, through the influence of the late Gen. L. Victor Baughman, who, for so many years, was the Democratic leader of this county, almost the whole colored vote is eliminated, less than fifty negroes being able to qualify as electors under the property qualification which the law contains.

As a consequence, the city is safely Democratic, provided strong and popular nominations are made, and there is harmony within the ranks of the party. Just what will be the outcome this year is somewhat problematical for the reason that the Democrats are not as well united as heretofore. The principal reason for this condition of affairs is the absence of the directing influence of Gen. Baughman, who, during his lifetime, was very successful in the management in Democratic affairs in both city and county.

There is a wide difference of opinion prevailing among the Democrats as to the methods that should be used in nominating a candidate for mayor and city register. For years the Crawford County system had been used in nominating these officers, but six years ago the system was arbitrarily set aside by the party managers. This action was much deplored by many Democrats, and in the light of what was accomplished in the Baltimore city primary a few weeks ago by the Democrats the friends of the system here in Frederick are vigorously contending that it be used again.

The Democratic city executive committee a few days ago had a warm discussion over the matter, but to conclusion was reached, and the question will, in all probability, be settled definitely May 2, when the committee meets to select dates for the primaries.

For the Democratic nomination for mayor there are two active candidates in George Edward Smith, the incumbent, who aspires to a third term, and John Edward Schell, who has been president of the board of aldermen for the past three years. The friends of these rival candidates are industriously at work, but neither side is very sanguine as yet.

Many of the friends of Mayor Smith are advocating the Crawford County system for the primaries, but the mayor has not yet committed himself, nor has his opponent, Alderman Schell. For the position of city register, E. C. Shepherd, an incumbent, has no opposition within his party. The present aldermen, John Hersberger, Joseph Douglas, Wesley Kindly, and Edward C. Leake, are Democrats, and all of them are said to be willing to succeed their term.

What opposition there will be to the Democratic nominees remains to be seen. The Republicans, being in the minority, are not very actively engaged as yet, but thus far the only person mentioned for the nomination by that party for mayor is Milton A. Woodward. Edward A. Gittinger, who was the predecessor of the present incumbent, is likely to be nominated for city register by the Republicans.

Aside from what is going on among the politicians of the two parties, there is a good deal of talk of citizens' movement with a view of taking the city's affairs out of politics.

MRS. WINANS DEAD

Wife of Baltimore Millionaire Expires in Paris.

PRINCESS CHALAI'S MOTHER

Before Marriage to Ross R. Winans, Deceased Was Miss Neva Whistler, Cousin of Artist Whistler, and the Niece of Chevalier Walter Winans, of St. Petersburg, Russia.

Baltimore, Md., April 29.—A cablegram was received here announcing the death in Paris to-day of Mrs. Ross R. Winans, the mother of Princess Henri Galard de Beaumet de Chalais, of Spain.

Ross R. Winans is a son of Ross Winans, the latter a brother of Thomas and Walter Winans. The three brothers made millions when millionaires were scarce, by building the first railroad in Russia, between Moscow and St. Petersburg. There was a quibble between the engineers as to the route, when the Car laid a rule on the map and drew a straight line between the two Russian cities. The road was built on that line.

Ross R. Winans inherited great wealth, owning a fine residence in Baltimore, but living most of his time abroad. His two sons are being educated at Eton and Harrow, and his daughter, Beatrice Winans, was educated in England and presented at court.

Daughter Marries Prince. Shortly before Beatrice Winans married the Prince de Chalais, of Spain, the Prince de Sagan, a Frenchman, created a stir by announcing that the Prince de Chalais was not entitled to his honors. The Prince de Chalais had been an attaché of the Russian Embassy in Washington, D. C., and St. Petersburg, but had not claimed his title until a year before his wedding. The Prince de Chalais' right to his name was confirmed by the King of Spain, and the wedding to the Baltimore heiress took place in Europe.

Mrs. Ross R. Winans was Miss Neva Whistler, a cousin of the artist Whistler; a niece of Chevalier Walter Winans, of St. Petersburg, and a sister-in-law of Mrs. Gaun M. Hutton, of Baltimore.
